HOW TO CHOOSE MEAT.

A contributor to the Chicago Tribune makes the following excellent suggestions: The inexperienced housekeeper is often dissatisfied with the results of her marketing because she is not a good judge of the quality of uncooked meats. Too often she is obliged to trust entirely to the butcher, who of course reserves his best goods for those acute buyers who are able to choose intelligently and will not be satisfied with an inferior article. A little careful observation would enable the housekeeper to detect the different grades of meat as well as to recognize the choice cuts.

Beef should always be mature. Good beef will be fat and the fat should be white or only a pale yellow, the lean should be a bright healthy red. If the beef is immature the color of the lean part will be pale and dull, the bone will be small and the fat very white. High colored coarse grained beef with the fat a deep yellow, should not be accepted. The lean part should be fine grained, not yielding too readily to pressure with the finger. Any greenish tints about either fat or lean and slipperiness of surface indicate that it has been kept too long. I am aware that some persons prefer what is called high flavor. This simply indicates that putrefaction has begun, and when this is the case, meat, in my opinion, is not fit for the table. One soon learns to know fresh from stale meat by its appearance. Any kind of meat which has been kept on ice should be cooked as soon as removed from it.

Mutton should be fat and the fat clear and white. Be wary of buying mutton with yellow fat. This abundance of fat is a source of waste, but as the lean part of mutton is much more juicy and tender than any other it should be chosen. After the butcher has cut off all he can be persuaded to remove, you will still have to trim it freely before broiling. The lean of mutton is quite different from that of beef. While beef is a bright carnation, mutton is a deep dark red. Mutton should also be mature. It should be three years old to be good, and five years to be prime. Lamb is good at a year old, and more digestible than most immature meats.

Veal should be clear, firm and the fat white. If dark and thin and the tissues lying loosely around the bones, it is not good. There is but little really good veal in this market. When of inferior quality or in the least stale it is very unwholesome, and at the best is of inferior value.

In regard to the choice cuts from beef, one's own tables is of course the standard. I prefer the porterhouse steaks on the whole, and I think the part nearest the thin bone the sweetest and juiciest of the meat. In catering for an invalid, I should choose either this or the strip of tenderloin. This latter can be secured by buying what the butchers call an edge bone steak after removing the tenderloin the remainder will do for the family table, being quite as good as sirloin. The small porterhouse steaks are the most economical. The tough and coarse part, which forms an undesirably great proportion of the large steaks, may go into the pot au feu, or after boiling, be made into hash, which, in spite of its ill reputation, is really very nice when well made. A round steak, forms good tender beef, does very well if the leg be not cut down too far. It is sweet and juicy, the objection being its toughness. To cancel this it may be chopped fine, seasoned, made into croquettes, and broiled on a griddle. These will be much liked.

The usual roast is, to me, very unattractive. If, instead of allowing the butcher to roll it up into a shapeless mass, the meat be placed upon the wire grate over the pan and the thin part simply folded under, so as to receive the drippings from above, it will cook much more nicely. Put no water in the pan, and rub the salt well into the meat before placing in the oven.

The hind-quarter of mutton is best for roasting. The ribs may be used for chops, but the leg cutlets are the most economical, as there is much less bone and no hard meat as on the ribs. Almost any part will do for broth. As much of the fat should be removed as practicable, then cut into small pieces and simmer slowly until the meat falls to pieces. Drain off and skim off any remaining fat and thicken with rice or vermicelli.

Deceit a Mormon Characteristic.

A very curious and subtile effect of polygamy is a tendency toward extreme reticence, habitual concealment of the feelings. It is often said by the Mormon preachers, and daily observation confirms it, that no people in the world keep their feelings and thoughts to themselves so well as Mormons. Your host may be torn by internal torments but you will sit at his table many a day ere you discover it. This might be well enough perhaps, but with it is closely connected an habitual deceit, which, of certain kinds, is all but universal in Utah. Its genesis is partly to be sought in polygamy. A man with more than one wife necessarily lives a lie, pretending an equal affection which he cannot possibly feel, and a policy of concealment is absolutely necessary to maintain peace. Going daily or weekly from one wife to another, he must preserve a determined reticence as to all that passed with the first, or resort to deceit. The wife, too, has her reasons for concealment or prevarication, it never would do to reveal her actual feelings if she means to retain her share of his affections. Whether this, continued through all the months of ante-natal growth, has a marked effect on the offspring, is a question for another branch of science; but certainly that or something else has affected the children of Utah. Deceit is a habit which easily extends from one thing to many, and the effects of this continual falsehood in in polygamy are only evil and that continually. The polygamous nations are universally more deceitful in their social relations than the monogamous.—Popular Science Monthly

A bachelor editor, who had a pretty unmarried sister, lately wrote to one similarly circumstanced, "Please exchange."

Subscribers to the TRIBUNE will confer a special favor upon the management by reporting at the office any neglect on the part of carriers.

THE CONGRESSIONAL NOMINATIONS.

The Republicans have nominated four candidates for Congress with a good prospect of sweeping the field. There is hardly a doubt that ex-Governor Pacheco will be elected from the Fourth District. He is a popular man and besides other elements of strength, will receive very nearly the entire support of native Californian voters. There will be no third party this year to divide the strength of Republicans in that District.

One of the best nominations ever made in the San Francisco District is that of Horace Davis. He may fitly be called a "representative" man. He represents the business intelligence and solid worth of that city. Mr. Davis is the well known flour merchant and miller. He is a graduate of Harvard University, a son of "Honest" John Davis, for many years Governor of Massachusetts, and a long time the colleague of Webster in the Senate. No man stands higher in business circles in San Francisco than Horace Davis. He is withal a man of large information and culture. In the days of the Overland Monthly, he wrote a series of articles for that periodical which attracted much attention and were widely copied. His articles on wheat culture especially were the most valuable ever published on this side of the country. Mr. Davis has never been a politician and is singularly free from ambition. His name was mentioned some time ago prominently in connection with the office of Mayor of San Francisco. But he declined to run for the office. We have not a doubt of his election. Piper was elected in that District because there were two other candidates in the field. John Swift received the support of the Independents, and Ira P. Rankin the support of the Republicans. This year the men who voted for Swift and Rankin will go solid for Davis. He will also receive considerable support from Democrats who have already refused to vote for Piper, and had nominated Horace Davis in advance of the regular Republican nomination. Horace Davis, merchant, manufacturer and scholar, represents San Francisco in the next Congress.

In the Second District, Henry F. Page is about as sure of an election as that the day of voting will come round. He has been a growing man from the day he first took his seat in Congress, and never was so well able to serve his constituents as now. He is active, faithful and honest. He has been long enough in Congress to acquire influence, and he knows how to use it for the benefit of his District. The Independents this year will generally support him. The Democrats can put no man in the field who can come within 2,500 votes of an election. Dr. Carpenter has been mentioned among others a probable candidate on the Democratic ticket. Carpenter was Speaker of the last Assembly, and was distinguished chiefly for having introduced and worked hard for the passage of one of the worst educational bills ever brought forward in this State. Its passage would have ruined the University, and have crippled the common schools. His bill was defeated by the honest friends of the public school system without regard to party. If Carpenter will only run this year on a congressional ticket in this District his account will, have the largest balance against him ever given for any defeated candidate in the Second District.

In the Third District the Republicans have nominated an able man, but one not so well known as the others. Joseph McKenna was a member of the last Legislature where he made an honorable reputation. He did quite as much to knock Carpenters' infamous educational bill on the head as any one man. McKenna is said to be quite popular in his District, and his friends are quite sanguine that he will be elected. His opponent will of course be Luttrell, the present incumbent who is an active wiry man, and something of a demagogue in his way. The contest in this District will be very close. But the Republicans have taken their best men and have gone in to win. The candidates for lectors are all good and true men. They will make a thorough canvass of the State. We have now hardly a doubt that this electoral ticket will sweep the field. The Republican programme is the election of four members of Congress and the Hayes and Wheeler electoral ticket.

BERKELEY SIXTEEN YEARS AGO.

The University at Berkeley will open next Monday with a new class of about one hundred. On that day the steam cars will begin to ply regularly between the Point and Berkeley. Students residing in San Francisco will be able to make the trip in less than an hour. They will be practicably as near the University as students residing in Oakland. Sixteen years ago the writer went out to Berkeley with a few friends to view the site of the present institution. It had just been bought by the trustees of the College of California. Dr. Horace Bushnell had much to do with selecting the site. The late President Durant, Isaac Brayton and Edwin Lacy were all staunch friends of the new institution. All were sanguine that some day a noble institution of learning would occupy the site at Berkeley. The city of San Francisco had then about sixty-five thousand inhabitants. Not one of these friends, so sanguine as they were, went far enough to predict that in 1876 the Freshman class at Berkeley would number one hundred, and that passenger trains running over steel rails would land students at the doors of the University in one hour from San Francisco. It was the day of small things there. These men builded better than they knew. Durant thought that there might be population enough some day to warrant the establishment of a ferry. But at a time when there was not a mile of railroad in California, saw possibly a beginning by Pioche beyond Sacramento, a local railroad to Berkeley did not enter into the mind of this good and far-seeing man as a remote probability. But in sixteen years more the streets will be built up solid from Oakland to Berkeley. There will be three or four horse railroads. The overland travel will come down the Bantas road, the track running between Berkeley and Jacobs' Landing. Instead of two edifices at Berkeley, there will be six or eight. A thousand students will congregate there. Private munificence will gather there the most valuable library on the Pacific coast. It is not so difficult to predict what may be done in the next sixteen years as it was sixteen years ago when Durant and Lacy and Brayton sat down on the college site at Berkeley, and predicted what might possibly be done in the next few years.

Senator Booth will soon take the stump take in this State for Hayes and Wheeler.

Ex-Senator Corbett and family are at the Palace Hotel, en route to Oregon, overland.

The Ivy Club hold their centennial and fancy dress party this evening, at Union Hall. It promises to be a magnificant affair.

Five hundred boys, between the ages of 15 and 20 years, are wanted in San Joaquin county to pick hops.

The Trustees of the German Benevolent Society have resolved to erect a small-pox hospital for members, near the site of the Twenty-sixth-street Hospital.

The assessment roll for the fiscal year amounts to $260,549,002—$71,757,030 personal property, and $188,791,972 real estate. Over $92,000 has been collected for poll taxes.

Union Hall was crowded last evening on the occasion of the Republican ratification meeting. Speeches were made by Hon. L. E. Pratt, Hon. J. McM. Shafter, W. C. Norton and Horace Davis.

The marriage of Carroll Cook with the daughter of W. W. Stow, late of the law firm of Patterson, Wallace & Stow, was celebrated on Wednesday evening at the residence of the latter, on Pine street. Mr. Cook is the son of the late Elisha Cook, at one time one of the leading lawyers of the San Francisco Bar.

The San Francisco Yacht Club has decided to have the sixth annual regatta on Saturday, September 2d, over the usual course, and under the rules governing former regattas. The new schooner-yacht being built for ex-Governor Pacheco and others, and which it is said will be called the Lalla Rookh, will participate in the contest.

Yesterday forenoon Earl Dufferin remained in the hotel and received visitors. In the afternoon, accompanied by his wife, and attended by Colonel Littlejohn and Captain Ward, he drove to the Cliff House and went through Golden Gate Park. In the evening the party attended Baldwin's Academy of Music. H. B. M's. corvette Amethyst will probably sail on Saturday to convey the distinguished visitors to British Columbia.

OVERLAND ARRIVALS TO-NIGHT.

CARLIN, Nev., August 10th.—The following is a list of passengers passing Carlin, to arrive in Oakland, Friday evening, August 11th:

THERE ARE MANY AGREABLE peculiarities in the climate of Oakland, among which may be noted the fact that any matrimonial unions that have not been prolific of "little darlings" elsewhere, have on the removal of the parties to Oakland been blessed with a "quiver full of them," as is demonstrated by the number of high chairs, cradles, etc., sold by Shellhaas, Eleventh street, Odd Fellows' Building.

EX-RECORDER MARSTON.

Judge Nye Throws Out the Two Presentments.

THE STOLEN FEE-BOOK NOT YET HEARD FROM.

The Missing Document.

The $1,500 Received for Fees in the Recorder's Office Last February Not Yet Accounted For.

A Thorough Investigation of this Mysterious Case Now in Order.

Mr. John Ames, who was a clerk in the County Recorder's office under the administration of Ben. F. Marston, whose term of office expired with the month of February last, says that he knows that the receipts for that month—the last under Mr. Marston as Recorder—were $1,500, and he is certain that he cannot be mistaken. Thereon hangs

AN UPLEASANT MYSTERY,

And from present appearances this mystery is likely to hang unraveled for some time to come, unless occasionally stirred up a little. We are inclined to think that it is in order to explore this mystery until the coincidence between Mr. Ames' unqualified statement and the yet unexplained absence of

A CERTAIN DOCUMEMT

from the Clerk and Auditor's Office, and the simultaneous spiriting away of the Recorder's fee-book has been more satisfactorily explained than it has yet been. Mr. Ames is a gentleman who not only stands high in this county where he is well known as a person of undoubted integrity, but he is one of those careful, thoughtful, methodical business men who

DON'T MAKE MISTAKES,

And whose habits of life are such as inspire confidence in the clearness of his intellect. Mr. Ames is not a man of treacherous memory. But Mr. Marston says that the receipts for the month in question were but $915 and some odd cents. In support of this assertion he points to the fact that February is a short month—last February being actually about a week shorter than the other months in regard to time for transacting public business in the Recorder's office. Marston also exhibits receipts covering many months which shows the average monthly receipts to be in the neighborhood $1,000, varying not much either way, through liable at any time of course to swell up to considerable more. Marston is a gentleman also in

PREVIOUS GOOD STANDING,

And he does not accuse Mr. Ames of lying, but says that he is mistaken. But at this hour of official corruption, when men of high standing occupying positions of public trusts are discovered stealing public money, their wide-spread distrust, and it will require more than Mr. Marston's mere say-so to reconcile with his denial the suspicious spiriting away of the Recorder's Fee-book, and the theft of his monthly statement for that particular month of February.

WHO STOLE THAT PAPER

From the pigeon-hole in the little room off the Auditor's main office, where Charley Reed carefully laid it away? Who had any interest in stealing it? What kind of a story would it tell now if it could be found and carefully compared with the entries in the Recorder's fee-book? And then again, where is that fee-book that Church was told by Mr. Marston to take from Searing's saloon and return to the Recorder's office, and which Mr. Church says he did take from Searing's saloon but can't seem to recollect now what he finally did with it?

THE STOLEN STATEMENT.

Charles Reed, County Auditor, says that when the monthly statement of receipts of Recorder's fees for the month of February last was handed him by Marston, some of the figures had been altered. The amount was $915. Ames had made out the document from the fee-book, and he says that when the paper left his hands the amount of fees received for the month of February last was stated to be $1,500. Now, who altered those figures, and in whose interest were they altered and to what purpose? If Mr. Ames tells the truth, and is not mistaken, the inference is that B. F. Marston found himself $518 short of the necessary funds to settle with the County Treasurer, and to cover up the deficit falsified the monthly statement made out by his clerk, Mr. Ames; and then to render discovery improbable, and conviction difficult, if not impossible, took away the fee-book from the Recorder's office, and spirited away the altered statement from its resting place in the Auditor's office.

THE GRAND JURY'S ACTION.

The Grand Jury who had this case in hand found two "presentments" against Mr. Marston, while Hunt, who was defaulter in the Assessor's department as collecter of poll taxes etc., in Oakland township, was "indicted" for felony. People wondered at the discrimination, and we took the trouble to inquire what the term "presentment" signified. We find the definition to be: "An informal statement in writing by the Grand Jury representing to the Court that a public offence has been committed which is triable in the county, and that there is reasonable ground to believe that a particular individual named or described therein has committed it."

JUDGE NYE'S ACTION.

Judge Nye of the County Court received the "presentments" in Mr. Marston's case, and announced that he would examine the case in Chambers. To-day we are informed that he officially announced that he had "thrown out" these presentments, not because there was nothing in them, but because of some fatal flaw in the papers as drawn up by the District Attorney. We understand that the documents charged Mr. Marston with having committed certain offenses, but failed in not prefacing the grave charges with the necessary legal verbiage, such as "he did wilfully, maliciously, etc.," do certain things.

WHAT NEXT?

In conversation with Mr. Marston a few days since, he expressed the opinion that the Grand Jury would not indict him. To use his own language, he "would get away with it." But when asked if he thought that would clear up the matter to the satisfaction of the public, he emphatically replied that he thought it would not. Of course it does not clear up the matter to the satisfaction of Marston's friends and acquaintances, neither does the disposition of the presentments by Judge Nye, rendered necessary doubtless on technical grounds, dispense the cloud of suspicion. In justice to the good name of ex-Recorder Marston, and of Mr. John Ames, the reputation of the Grand Jury and of the District Attorney, and for the satisfaction of the public who have a right to know the truth, let this matter be investigated and this mystery explored until the truth is reached.

THE UNTERRIFIED.

Tilden and Hendricks First Ward Democratic Club.

The First Ward Democrats held a meeting last evening in Stanford's Hall, at the Point. The hall was crowded, every convenient space being taken. Hon. Thomas N. Wand was unanimously elected Chairman of the meeting, in the absence of the Club's regular President. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

CO-OPERATION ASKED.

The Secretary read communications from different Democratic clubs throughout the city asking co-operation in the work begun under such auspicious signs.

A communication was presented and read from the Tilden and Hendrick's Reform Club, New York city, inviting the co-operation of every club in the country. This club has for its object "reform," and diffusing "useful" information pertaining to democratic principles throughout the country.

On motion, the communications were received and placed on file.

AN INVITATION.

At this stage of the proceedings the meeting was interrupted by a messenger bearing a communication from the Fourth Ward Democratic Club, inviting the members of the First Ward Democratic Club to attend their next meeting in a body, on next Monday evening. The invitation was accepted.

The President introduced to the audience Major Elliott of San Francisco.

A SPEECH.

The Major commenced a speech by stating that he was somewhat surprised and a little discouraged at not finding music provided. It was only to-day that he had the honor of knowing that he was going to address the First Ward Democrats; consequently he had prepared no set speech. He said that never before in the history of this nation had there been a canvass inaugurated of such vital importance.

THE QUESTION

Before the American people is whether we intend to perpetuate the Republican form of Government, or allow it to be disgraced as it has been. Honesty has been the exception in the history of the Republican party, not the rule of it. The gentleman handled the press of San Francisco without gloves. He stated that the powerful

PRESS OF SAN FRANCISCO

Was all one sided, they covered up the truth and ignored everything that was either honest or honorable. Newspapers of that class were a disgrace to this civilized land. In an excited manner and with a gesture that would have

MADE WEBSTER BLUSH

In his palmiest days, the speaker drew from his pocket a copy of the New York Day Book. He informed the audience that the paper he was about to read from was the most reliable and best paper published in the United States. The article read was a financial one, which covered over four columns and probably not understood by more than a dozen men in the

WHOLE AUDIENCE.

It might be well, however, to state here that the facts contained in the article were altogether foreign to any principle or set of principles advocated by the Democrats. Mr. Elliott closed his address with a grand peroration which brought down the house, and had Henry Clay or Daniel Webster been present, they would have retired from the public rostrum abashed at such a superior flow of eloquence from the lips of a human being.

Other speeches followed and the meeting adjourned amid great enthusiasm.

OBITUARY.

Death of Policeman Joseph H. Tyler.

Joseph H. Tyler, of East Oakland, of the Oakland City Police Force, died last evening at his residence at Brooklyn, after a serious illness of several weeks. The funeral will take place from the Independent Presbyterian Church, corner of Fifteenth and Jefferson streets, to-morrow at 10 o'clock A. M. Mr. Tyler was an efficient officer and a man highly respected by every one. He was a brother-in-law of Captain D. H. Rand, and leaves a wife and daughter to mourn his loss. He was a native of Maine, and forty-four years of age. He was a charter member of California Lodge, No. 1, A. O. U. W., of West Oakland, and his wife will receive $2,000—the sum paid to wives of deceased members who were in good standing at the time of their death. This evening California Lodge, No. 1, and Oakland Lodge, No. 2, will meet to make arrangements for attending the funeral. The members of the Police Force of this city will take part in the obsequies.

In the Police Court this morning Mr. Tyler's death was announced by City Attorney Henry Vrooman. He stated that the deceased had been here for years, and was well known in this community. By his pleasant address and affable manners he had endeared himself to the people, and by his honest deportment had challenged the respect of his superior officers. Mr. Vrooman moved that the Court adjourn out of respect to Officer Tyler. Judge Jaynes adjourned the Court and ordered the Clerk to make a note of it.

SYSTEMATIC CHARITY.

A Suggestion for the Consideration of the Generous.

What the Oakland Benevolent Society Contemplates Doing.

There are several benevolent societies in Oakland, all of which are doing a great deal of good in the way of relieving suffering humanity and ameliorating the condition of deserving poor, and extending the helping hand to the needy generally. We have the Ladies' Relief Society, the Ladies' Home, Oakland Benevolent Society, and some others we believe; but there are some cases which these societies do not reach, and for the relief of which we suppose they are not exactly prepared.

HOMELESS WAYFARERS.

For instance, it happens very often, and in fact at the less busy season of the year it is of daily occurrence, that men are here looking for work and who are entirely out of money. Some times work is not easily obtained, and it requires some little time to hunt up a job. Having no money, of course they have no place to sleep unless it be in some unoccupied building, (and there are not many such to be found in this city,) or on the sidewalk, and if caught trying to

SNATCH A LITTLE REST

In that unlawful manner they are likely to be arrested and on conviction the Police Judge has no alternative but to punish them by fine or imprisonment for a violation of a city ordinance. Of course, if men so situated apply to the Police authorities they can obtain a meager meal or two at the City Hall, and a filthy bed at the city's expense. But many of these people do not come under the head of "tramps," and shrink from accepting that kind of accommodation, and do not desire to be compelled to herd even

FOR A SINGLE NIGHT

With outcasts and degraded criminals. Many of these men have been in California but a few months, or perhaps for a year or two, and are temporarily in a strait not through indolence, crime or dissipation, but through misfortune and the peculiar condition of the labor market throughout the State. The nature of farm work in California is such that a large class of laborers can obtain steady work for only a few months in the year; at the close of short terms of labor they are obliged to skirmish around to find some other

TEMPORARY JOB,

And often all their money, accumulated through months of hardest kind of toil, is swept away before they find a stopping place. It seems to us a matter of necessity rather than charity to make some provision for this class of men. We think other provision than that at the City Hall ought to be made, and we offer the suggestion for the consideration of those of our citizens who are at all times ready and prompt to answer appeals to their benevolence and good judgment and who naturally have a desire, when they extend help, to know that the charity will

NOT BE THROWN AWAY

On the unworthy. We are under the impression that the field occupied by the benevolent societies in Oakland is not intended to cover the class of cases we allude to, but possibly we may be in error. A TRIBUNE representative had an inteview yesterday with Mr. A. I. Gladding, President of the Oakland Benevolent Society, in regard to the work of this institution. Mr. Gladding said that the society during the past year had done an immense amount of work; but as far as he was concerned, any personal hand in the details of

THE SOCIETY'S BUSINESS

Must cease very soon, as private business matters so demanded his constant attention that he could not longer efficiently discharge the duties required of him as President of the society, without neglecting other interests. Mr. Hardy, Mr. Page and the other gentlemen of the society had discussed the situation, and had arrived at the conclusion that the ligtimate work of the society is so important as to demand the sole attention of some one competent man, and that the society should employ such a person at a fair salary, and

PROVIDE AN OFFICE

For the transaction of the business. A meeting of the Society will be held some day next week at which the proposition will be discussed. This is a move in the right direction, and if carried out we feel certain will result in securing the attention and contributions of hundreds of our citizens who now never give a thought to the matter simply because it is never brought prominently and systematically to their notice. Whatever is worth doing at all, is worth doing well. We believe in systematic, well-organized benevolence, and that will be found to be the general sentiment of this community. When such an office is once established, hundreds of our citizens will contribute

CAST-OFF CLOTHING

And other articles in good condition that will relieve the urgent wants of the poor, but which are now useless to anybody. We have no doubt that the increase in contributions that would inevitably result from the establishing of such an office as that proposed, and the employment of some good man to devote his entire attention to the details of the work, would much more than cover the entire expense of renting the office and and the cost of its management.

ASSESSOR HUNT.

Text of the Indictment for Felony.

The case of the People vs. ex-Assessor Edwin Hunt was called in the County Court this morning.

Owing to the illness of the defendant, the case was continued until Monday next.

Following is the text of the indictment against Mr. Hunt, showing some of the unnecessary legal verbiage and repeti.ions:

"People of the State of California vs. Hunt," etc.

The said Edwin Hunt is accused by the Grand Jury of the said County of Alameda, State of California by this indictment, found the 4th day of July, A. D., 1876, of the crime of a felony, committed as follows: The said Edwin Hunt, on the 6th day of July, 1876, at the county and seat aforesaid, and has been prior thereto and since the first Monday in March, 1876, the duly elected, qualified and acting Assessor of Oakland Township, in said County of Alameda, and as such Assessor, was charged by law with the receipt, safe keeping and transfer of public moneys belonging to said County of Alameda, to wit: All moneys collected by him, as such Assessor according to law for poll taxes in and for said Oakland for the fiscal year 1876-7. That said Edwin Hunt, as such Assessor, was required by law to demand and receive from the County Auditor of said County of Alameda, from time to time between the said first Monday in March, 1876, and the 6th day of July, 1876, sufficient two dollar poll tax receipts to meet the demands of collector of said poll taxes between said dates, and on the first Monday of each and every month, between said first Monday in March, 1876, and said 6th day of July, 1876, to transfer and pay over to the Treasurer of said county all moneys collected by him as such Assessor during the last preceeding week for said poll tax, at the rate of two dollars each of said poll tax receipts, less the per centum allowed by law for his fees. That said Edwin Hunt was required to pay over to said Treasurer, at the aforesaid date, the total amount of poll taxes collected. That said Edwin Hunt demanded and received from Auditor Reed poll tax receipts as above to the amount of twenty-four hundred; that said Edwin Hunt collected and received between the dates aforesaid from divers persons, the sum of $1,562 in gold coin of the United States, as poll taxes for said year, at the rate of $2 for each person, and exchanging to said persons said receipts therefor, to the number of 2281. That at divers times said Hunt paid over to said Treasurer poll taxes collected by said Hunt as Assessor, to the amount of $923 in said gold coin. That said Hunt did wilfully, unlawfully and feloniously omit, and refuse to transfer and pay over to Chas. G. Palmer, who was then and there the duly elected and qualified Treasurer of Alameda county, and authorized to receive all public moneys collected by said Hunt as Assessor, for poll taxes in and for Oakland township, the sum of $2,800 in the current coin of the United States so collected and received by said Edwin Hunt, and which was then and there the property of said county of Alameda. Contrary to the force and effect of the statutes in such cases made and provided and against the peace and dignity of the State of California.

District Attorney.

THE TRANSGRESSOR.

Twenty-Five Dollars Fine for Stealing Ten Cents Worth of Coal.

To a sympathetic person a Police Court in a large city is certainly not a congenial place to visit. For while you meet there hardened criminals who deserve to be confined in the penitentiary for the remainder of their lives, there are at times people brought up before the court who even if tainted with guilt are deserving of some consideration. A case was before His Honor Judge Jayne this morning which attracted considerable attention and called forth considerable sympathy, not only from the audience, but the Court. A man, at the head of a large family, whose name we suppress out of consideration for the feelings of his wife and children, was arrested for pilfering coal. The man arrived in this city from the East several months ago, and at the time of his arrival, had a few hundred dollars, but on account of not being able to obtain employment the money was soon spent in providing for the

NECESSARIES OF LIFE.

Yesterday this same man was brought up before the Police Court on a charge of petit larceny. In his case it certainly behooves us to be charitable, for if we are to credit the statement of his wife as well as the statements of his attorney to the Court,

DIRE NECESSITY

Alone induced the man to commit the crime. The family were in indigent circumstances, and not having anything to eat that day she had procured some meat from a charitable butcher; returning home with the meat she discovered that there was no fuel in the house with which she could cook it. When the husband looked at the pale faces of his children and heard their cry for something to eat, and glanced at the emaciated form of his wife, is it to be wondered at that he should go out in search of fuel to keep those that were near and dear to him from

STARVING?

To proud to beg he took a few pieces of coal and carried it home with him, and scarcely had he an opportunity to notice the joy of his pacified children before the strong arm of the law called him to account for his indiscretion. This morning a petition was presented before his Honor, signed by many

RESPECTABLE CITIZENS OF OAKLAND

Asking for leniency in the case of the prisoner. His Counsel made a powerful plea in his behalf, but the Court had no other alternative. He was sentenced to pay $25, or 25 days in jail, being the lightest sentence the Court could impose.

THE PROSPECTIVE CONCERTS.

A Query as to the Discrimination in Price of Tickets.

The citizens of Oakland will be glad to hear that Prof. Morgan is about to inaugurate a series of concerts for the coming Autumn, since one of the great inconveniences of a residence here has been the lack of anything like amusement or recreation.

The evenings are confessedly dull, amatuer theatricals and church auctions are getting to be an expensive bore, and even the professional artists feel the deficiencies of stage adjuncts, and are too often betrayed into second rate work, confident that their best patrons will cross the bay to see and hear them under more favorable surroundings. A good concert is independent of ajuncts, as Prof. Herold proved last winter by crowding so unattractive a place as "Platt's Hall" week after week with untiring and delighted audiencies, one-third of whom at least were Oaklanders.

There is a great deal of finely developed musical talent both in San Francisco and Oakland, and a growing taste for music among the young, which cannot be too highly cultivated, as all refined enjoyments tend to subdue the grosser elements, and lead to aspirations for culture, which are ennobling and beneficial, and often exclude those pleasures which are deteriorating to character.

We have an objection however to a discrimination in the price of tickets, between those who attend the season, and those those who go but once. Why should the holder of a season ticket (often the best able to buy) get more for his money that the individual who allows himself and perhaps one or two others the treat of a single evening's performance?

It is a well known fact that the getting up of a first-class musical entertainment is an expensive wearisome and often thankless affair. But all business men experience these vexations, and while it might be argued that a transitory scheme, has not the same conditions of success as a permanent business arrangement, the manager is supposed to consider this in fixing his scale of prices, and Prof. Herold did wisely in graduating his to a choice of seats only. If Prof. Morgan intends giving us vocal music as well as instrumental, of course prices will be in proportion to the performance, and $1 is not too much to allow a fair margin for profit. We sincerely wish him success and an overflowing house, but would it not be well to reconsider the subject of single admission?

MISSION SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Complimentary Communication from a Spectator.

EDITOR TRIBUNE:—The Central Mission Sunday School Concert last evening held at the Academy of Music on Sixth street, under the direction of Prof. McGibney was a very fine entertainment and embraced a number of choruses by a selection of forty scholars of the school, and instrumental and vocal selections by the Professor and his family. Mrs. McGibney presided at the Piano while the selections by the family were executed. Of the children, five of whom performed on the violin, I cannot speak in too high praise. Little Allie won the hearts of all, and I trust she will show her lovely face and sing the Drummer Girl again. How such perfect execution of the Choruses was secured without previous drilling is quite wonderful. Altogether the Managers of the school have succeeded in giving the public a very enjoyable and in every other way a successful concert. I do not feel prepared to estimate the of good such entertainments must produce in the Sunday School work. Especially do I feel interested in the success of the Central Mission, and trust the earnest appeal of the Superintendent for teachers will find a hearty respond by many. Its sessions are held at 2:30 each Sunday, in the Academy. The officers are W. R. Bentley, Supt., B. S. Tower, Assistant Supt., Fred C. Miles, Sec'y, and Theodore Gladding, Librarian.

THE RAILROAD WAR.

Eccentricities and Absurdities of the Fight Between Cohen and the Railroad Company.

The fight between the Central Pacific Railroan Company and A. A. Cohen presents some ludicrous phases. When on friendly or at least business terms with that gentleman, the railroad company used to tote his palace car all over the State wherever its tracks were laid, even into Ogden in Utah, charging him only twenty cents per mile for the accommodation. But after Cohen began his war upon them the company played an aggravating trick upon him. They ran the car out to the end of a side track which terminated in a field at Fruit Vale Station, left it there, and then took up the rails between it and the main track—and there it stands now, all alone in its glory, like a stranded whale upon the sea shore. Some time ago Cohen made application for a writ of mandate to compel the Railroad Company to fulfil its contract to transport the car over its roads. The case was argued to-day before Judge McKee in the Third District Court on a motion to strike out certain averments in the petition for the writ of mandate. The case was taken under advisement.

Arrests.

The following report of arrests has been made since our issue yesterday: Officers Summers and Ross arrested Chris Hansen for being drunk and disorderly. Officer Barrett arrested Ralph Wilson for petit larceny. Officer Dodge arrested A. H. Myers for carrying concealed weapons. Officers Mitchell, Ross and Taylor arrested Ah Wing for battery. Officer Chase arrested John Martin for misdemeanor.

A Woman Attempts Suicide.

Mrs. Silva, residing at Pleasanton, attempted to commit suicide Wednesday evening by shooting herself through the head. She fired two shots, the bails entering just behind the ear. She is alive and it is thought she will recover. No cause for the rash act is known.

THE GREAT UNKNOWN.

AIR: HAIL COLUMBIA.

[Written for the Daily Evening Tribune.]

Cincinnati, treasured name!
Bear aloft! O wings of fame,
Columbia's plaudits to the skies!
She bids her hosts to arm and rise,
To sweep, with leader Heaven sent,
The Democratic firmament.
Fair, noble Hayes, ally of right
And liberty and truth—the might
A people hold, who trust the God
That lit the path their fathers trod.

CHORUS.

Gather strong, ye freemen born—
Vict'ry waits ye on the morn,
Glory crown'd, a century
Woos the sons of loyalty.

Many victories you have won
In the halls at Washington,
And now our ships, so proud and great!
Move down the ways in trimmer state,
Replanked, remanned with choicest crew,
A Captain brave and pure and true,
Well tried in battles din and whirr,
Leading the troops at Winchester.
Truth and wisdom and valor blent
Shall make brave Hayes our President.
Gather strong, etc.

Hayes and Wheeler, noble peers,
Headlights of the coming years;
Unmarred by taint or calumny,
They'll show the world a policy
Excelled by none for truth's fair aim,
Since our lamented Lincoln came.
No slave now pleads to us in chains.
Where discord was, sweet Union reigns,
And Freedom's sons who fought in blue
Are now, as then, both brave and true.
Gather strong, etc.

From the rugged shores of Maine,
Wooed by Ocean's winds in vain,
To where the Western waters surge
Against the cliffs in mournful dirge,
Awakes the echo—people's voice,
Proclaiming Hayes the people's choice.
Columbia shall not be dismay'd,
For on her hights we'll have array'd
Our trusty warriors, valiant souls,
And they shall conquer at the polls.
Gather strong, etc.

THE LAST CHARGE.

BY LEAVITT HUNT.

In yon ravine with teaming life
Two thousand lodges rise
The Sioux in camp but ever rife
The war path watch with gun and knife
Well armed against surprise

But now our comrades strike the trail
Hail! small dev sted ban l!
Three hundred of the Seventh hail
Who ever knew a charge to fail
With Custer in command?

Dare Custer charge that savage lair
Where duty means to die?
O yes answer quick the trumpet s blare that sounds his last comm and in air
In column—charge—by company

Whom summons this last bugle call to charge the deadly pace
His brothers blush cu d ch id to fall
They number five but they are all
Akin to Custer s race

Let fall the rein the chargers dash
Like tigers in a den
Barred in they fall death rifle crash,
But failing deal the deadly gash
They are but one t ten

At eve all lay by Death enrolled
In ghastly bivouac
Alone Death stalked the st ry to ld
Of men f r ret n sp rit m ll
That column of attack

The sun sank down l en dyed in bl d
When lo a phantom shade
Of kind ed spirits est p d with hood
In battle line to greet them st od
The deathless Light Brigade

In low salute the r les dip
As Custer m v s but re
Their sabers sing in veteran gr p,
One glea ll m es ry tip
To comrad s as f y te

They wheel in r ar w h penn n lan e
Ab es r nal f r rian
Their chan pi n, charges proudly pra
For ough ar h g ev they advance
And Custer leads the van

The Age of Heroism Not Dead.

During the great storm in Ohio, a train of cars ran into a tunnel near North Bend, in which the water was so deep that it put out the fire in the locomotive, and over a hundred passengers were imprisoned An other train would be due in an hour and it was necessary that somebody should get out of the tunnel and reach a neighboring signal to prevent a terrible disaster The water was about four feet deep and running swiftly A young man, whose name is not given in the Cincinnati Times' account of the occurrence, volunteered for the exploit The total darkness increased the danger, and the distance was an eighth of a mile The young man removed his boots and coat and plunged in The current carried him along, and he easily kept his head above water, although collisions against the rocky sides of the tunnel nearly disabled him, but he made the passage and stopped the threatening train In the meantime the passengers in the tunnel were trembling with hope and fear, and the suspense was not relieved until several hours later, the water subsided, and the fire in the locomotive was rekindled and their journey was continued —New York Sun

Potato Bugs.

He had been killing potato bugs for his father and working like a hero He kept at it until it got to be so dark he could not see a potato bug unless it appeared with a torch, and then he jumped over the fence and started for her home. He had sat with her some minutes and had drawn the dear head close to his shoulder, and was patting her cheek with his hand, when the doubting, pondering expression which had been gathered on her countenance since his arrival, suddenly settled into a gleam of intelligence

"Phew" she ejaculated springing to her feet "What have you got on your hand?"

"My hand" he murmured, in surprise, mechanically bringing that valuable member close up to his nose, and promptly retiring from it as if hit between the eyes with a club "Geewhitaker" he explosively shouted, "them s pop's tater bugs I've been killing'

'Well, sir, you'd better go back and stay with your pop until you get old enough to wash your hands before you make a call." And she swept indignantly from his sight

A few days ago conversation was carried on between Boston and Rye Beach, New Hampshire, which are sixty-nine miles apart
